Terry Campus instructor wins Nursing Instructor of the Year

DOVER- The Delaware Student Nurses Association recently named Delaware Technical & Community College, Terry Campus's Paula Mundell the 2008 Nursing Instructor of the Year.

Six instructors from across the state, nominated by their students, were judged by an anonymous committee through the Delaware Student Nurses Association (DSNA). Mrs. Mundell, of Middletown, met all requirements and gratefully received the award complete with a plaque, certificate and flowers.

When asked what she hopes to accomplish as an instructor, Mrs. Mundell replied, "I have a passion for the students. I want them to be compassionate caregivers and critical thinkers. I had excellent mentors and only hope to return what was given to me as a student."

Mrs. Mundell began instruction in the paramedic program at the Terry Campus in 1998 and has been a nursing instructor since 2005.

"This award comes as no surprise. Paula is a truly committed professional nurse and educator," Vice President and Campus Director Daniel L. Simpson said.
